Moundaville, which was invaded some time in that dim past beyond the day of Columbus by the Phoenicians and Creatians, who to keep their ranks from joining Coxev's army, or getting dyspepsia, set them to work carrying dirt and piling it up in a heap, was last night invaded by the "Best People on Earth." Wheeling lodge of Elks sent down a detachment of about thirty-five members, who somehow acquired possession of the town, and they owned it till they came home on a special train this morning.

The object of the mission was to plant a branch of the order there. The exercises took place in the opera house. In the afternoon the officers already chosen by the new lodge were duly initiated, and last evening the lay mem-bers were "put through." No fatalities were reported.
